

This invention relates to methods and pharmaceutical compositions for providing hormone replacement therapy in perimenopausal, menopausal, and postmenopausal women through the continuous administration of combinations of 5 conjugated estrogens and medroxyprogesterone acetate.